

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Media Contact:

Kristine Heine
Global Communicators
(202) 371-9600
kheine@globalcommunicators.com

Michiko Morales, former Stanton Communications Vice President, Joins Global Communicators as Senior Vice President

WASHINGTON, DC (Dec.18, 2006) – Former Stanton Communications Vice President Michiko M. Morales has joined Global Communicators (GC) as senior vice president for media relations and new business development, effective November 20, 2006.

Jim Harff, GC chairman and CEO, said Morales brings a decade of public relations and marketing experience in the United States and Japan to her new position. “Michi’s bicultural background coupled with GC’s experience and contacts in China, Japan, South Korea, and Thailand will support our intentions to develop business opportunities in the Asia-Pacific region,” Harff said.

From 2004 until she assumed the GC position, Morales was vice president of Stanton Communications in its Washington, DC, office. She supervised accounts that covered business process outsourcing, technology, defense contracting and consumer product industries.

Prior to Stanton Communications, Morales was senior counselor and director of the Washington office of The Martin Agency/ SLAY Public Relations with offices in Richmond and Alexandria, VA. She held a number of public relations positions in the state of Washington. Morales holds a bachelor’s degree in English from Kyoto University of Foreign Studies in Japan and a bachelor’s degree in public relations from Central Washington University. She provides PR and marketing counsel to The Potomac Officers Club, a senior executive membership organization in the Washington metro region.

About Global Communicators:

Global Communicators is a Washington DC-based international communications firm with strategic partner offices in Los Angeles and St. Louis. The firm offers a broad range of public relations and marketing services including media relations, brand development, special events, tourism promotion, economic development, government affairs, foreign representation and crisis communications. For more information, visit www.globalcommunicators.com.

###